To Whom it May Concern:

I would like to highly recommend Ann Magid-Beale for employment as a teacher. She has been an intern-teacher with me for the past school year and she has done an excellent job. She has also gone above and beyond her teaching duties as an intern at Williamston High School.

Miss Beale worked very hard this year to fully understand the curriculum she was teaching and to be sure her lessons were aligned to the state standards. She adapted many of the lessons to fit her teaching style, she quickly developed relationships with the students and worked on assessing her work as it went on. She was willing to adapt to meet her students' needs and worked with the Special Education staff to accommodate all 504 and IEP accommodations we had in the class.

Miss Beale also worked as a homebound teacher for two students during the year. She became a positive role model in both the students' lives and one particular student who had really struggled with school came to really trust Miss Beale. Although the student was not able to fully return to school this year, she did try and Miss Beale was someone with whom she obviously had a strong, positive relationship. As the homebound teacher Miss Beale also had to work with other staff members and the counselor who oversaw the homebound student. On at least two separate occasions the counselor remarked to me how wonderful Miss Beale was doing and how much she appreciated her help in a difficult situation.

Another way that Miss Beale went above and beyond her duties of the classroom included co-advising the Model United Nations program with me. She helped students learn about other countries and their policies and she also helped stay up late into the night to supervise out of town conferences.

Miss Beale has a calm nature with students. She is patient and kind but strict when the situation arises. She rarely had to raise her voice and the students appreciated the atmosphere in her classroom. She encouraged students to do their best and to dig to a deeper understanding of the information.

Miss Beale will be an excellent teacher, one who honestly cares about her students and their success. Please contact me if you have further questions about Miss Beale. I can be reached at 517-655-2142, ext. 7680 or wadea@gowcs.net. Thank you so much for your time.

Sincerely,

Anne M. Wade
